PERSONAL STATEMENT:

During my career at American Airlines in Miami I have worked with many flight attendants who take pride and joy in the job we all do, each time I work a trip I take part of the honor of serving our customers specially the Miami customers with such great crew. Today, I nominate myself to the position of APFA Miami vice president, so I can represent everyone with pride and honor towards our company. I believe that learning from experience is the key to a successful term and future of our team. If you trust me, I will do my best to assist our president and the team to continue to create a better relationship and demand accountability of our companies leadership today and in the future. Thank you in advance for your trust and don't forget we are all in this together.

PERSONAL STATEMENT:

It is an honor to be asked to share a slate with Randy Trautman for MIA Vice President. Miami is no place for representatives who believe in “business hours”, grandstanding or having a personal agenda. MIA is extremely busy and day to day base work MUST come FIRST. Randy demands it. APFA Policy requires I give 18 days of service to you. Except for some days during my bid vacation, I work with and for flight attendants every single day of every month and never claim time spent on personal matters. When APFA gathers for meetings, I always remain at base because Randy and I feel strongly one of us must always be here for you.

Sometimes in union work I am unable to provide the precise remedy my colleagues desire, but my commitment is that I will ALWAYS exhaust every angle to get the best possible outcome and I will ALWAYS fight for justice. I will represent all APFA flight attendants equally regardless of seniority, legacy carrier, speaker qualification or personal feelings. I will treat your contract issues as well as investigations/disciplinary cases as if they were my own. If I can’t resolve your issue, I have a deep network of people who will assist us.

Randy & I remain committed to helping mentor future leaders and are energized the past few years having worked with some bright new talent at APFA.

One thing is certain...APFA is under attack from the inside by Officers, other leadership, and members with self-interests. Know that I will not only protect you as a MIA flight attendant, but I will also protect APFA as an organization.

PERSONAL STATEMENT:

Leading others is an earned privilege, not a right. The purpose of a leader must be above all to serve others. That is why I look forward to serving you all as your next MIA Base Vice President. Among the core duties of the Vice President is supporting all flight attendants in the operational challenges they face on a daily basis while providing assistance to the Base President. Our work group is multigenerational and for this reason the challenges we face are very different. Starting a new career, moving to a new city, commuting to work, starting a new family or dealing with elderly relatives all while meeting the demands of our job, such as serving on reserve, long work days, work on holidays, weather delays and cancellations which are some of these challenges. Before becoming a flight attendant, I worked as a Flight Service Duty Manager (MOD). That position gave me a front row seat to witness the balancing act our colleagues go through on a daily basis and has given me the base knowledge to help others, something I enjoy and have a passion for. Our leadership must be able to balance the needs of its members. It is imperative that they provide the necessary support so that everyone feels represented and cared for regardless of seniority. My commitment to you along with Christian Casadey, my running mate, is to provide everyone with equal union representation that makes you feel heard and cared for.

Supporting and Caring for you all across the board!!!
